Tatiana Shustova has included sets of pieces written during a very critical period in Rachmaninoff's life. His most popular works were written right after this crisis period. Shustova will talk a bit about Rachmaninoff's compositional style to help us hear the difference in the music written before and after his crisis.

Dr. Shustova is an extremely accomplished solo pianist who has given concerts and won competition awards in the United States and in Europe. She is currently an adjunct faculty member of the Millikin University School of Music as well as an instructor at the Illinois String Academy and Piano Laboratory Program at the University of Illinois at Urbana/Champaign.

The concert is free, but reservations are highly recommended. You may register on the Events Page of the library website <http://dglibrary.org/events> or by calling the library at 630-960-1200.
